PRÉSENTATION DE LA 12ÈME JOURNÉE INTERNATIONALE DU SOUVENIR TRANS

HISTORIQUE

La Journée Internationale du Souvenir Trans' (nom original : TDOR – Transgender Day of Remembrance) commémore la mémoire des personnes trans' assassinées en raison de leur transidentité. Elle a été instaurée en novembre en l'honneur de Rita Hester, une femme trans' africaine américaine assassinée le 28 novembre 1998. La vague de colère que suscita sa mort a donné lieu à une veillée aux chandelles le vendredi suivant (4 décembre) à laquelle environ 250 personnes ont participé et qui inspira le projet web de mémorial « Remembering our deads » (www.rememberingourdead.org) ainsi que la première Journée Internationale du Souvenir Trans en 1999. Le meurtre de Rita Hester, comme la plupart des meurtres transphobes, n'a toujours pas été élucidé. Nombreux-ses sont ceux et celles qui ont disparu et dont on reste sans nouvelles depuis des mois, depuis des années.

LA VIOLENCE TRANSPHOBES AUJOURD'HUI

Aujourd'hui, 20 novembre 2010, nous commémorons avec tristesse et colère la 12ème Journée Internationale du Souvenir Trans'. Les agressions transphobes sont une réalité. Le site internet Transrespect versus Transphobia¹ dénombrait en janvier dernier plus de 330 homicides transphobes dans le monde sur les deux dernières années écoulées (plus de 3 par semaine); et continue d'alerter sur la recrudescence des agressions. Ces chiffres sont en outre largement sous-évalués compte tenu du grand nombre d'agressions non signalées. En France, les personnes trans' font face à une violence quotidienne, dans la rue, sur leurs lieux de travail, et même jusque chez elle.

/ DIVA, assassinée, étranglée chez elle à Saint Raphael, a été retrouvée par ses amies qui s'inquiétaient de ne pas avoir de ses nouvelles depuis plusieurs jours.

/ Marizette a été retrouvée morte, attachée aux toilettes de chez elle.

/ Kima s'est jetée sous une voiture, poussée au suicide par les persécutions qu'elle a subies.

Bien que toutes les personnes représentées lors du TDOR ne s'identifient pas comme trans' (travestis-es, cross-dresser, etc.), toutes ont été victimes de violences basées sur la haine et les préjugés à l'encontre de la transidentité.

Les personnes trans' sont dans une situation de forte précarité à de multiples niveaux :

/ Les opérations de réassignation sexuelle coûtent très cher, et lorsque les personnes choisissent de les effectuer à l'étranger (où les résultats sont incomparablement meilleurs) elles ne sont pas remboursées par la sécurité sociale.

/ L'insertion professionnelle des personnes en transition est très mauvaise en raison des discriminations à l'embauche et au manque de sensibilisation des entreprises aux questions de transidentité.

/ Le corps médical est également très peu informé sur la transidentité, les professionnels de santé (et en particulier les psychiatres) sont dans une attitude de défiance et rendent difficiles et/ou retardent l'accès aux hormones et à la chirurgie, ce qui rend difficile l'intégration sociale, et donc professionnelle, de nombreuses personnes trans'.

/ Le corps social (assistants sociaux, hébergements d'urgence, etc.) n'est lui aussi pas formé aux questions trans', ce qui empêche les personnes trans' d'avoir recours aux services sociaux.

/ La difficulté (expertises, lenteurs de procédure, ...) du changement d'état-civil et ses conséquences (inéquation entre l'apparence physique et les documents personnels – carte d'identité, carte vitale, carte bancaire, ..) est enfin un facteur considérable d'exclusion.

Parmi les personnes trans', nombreuses sont celles qui ont eu une période de prostitution dans leur vie ou qui travaillent comme prostituées. Les violences à leur encontre sont également une réalité, la pénalisation du racolage oblige les prostituées à travailler « dans l'ombre » dans des conditions précaires qui favorisent les violences à leur égard. Les travailleuses du sexe trans' sont doublement la cible de violences, en tant que trans' et en tant que prostituées.

Nous voulons attirer aujourd'hui l'attention sur la violence transphobe. Cette violence s'exerce de manière directe par des agressions (meurtres, passages à tabac, viols de représailles, ...). Cette violence s'exerce également de manière indirecte par l'exclusion des personnes trans' qui peut conduire à une dépréciation de soi, aux suicides et aux comportements à risques – les personnes trans' sont une des populations les plus touchées par le sida.

LES DIFFÉRENTES ACTIONS DANS LE CADRE DE LA 12ÈME JOURNÉE INTERNATIONALE DU SOUVENIR TRANS'

Divers événements (rassemblements, conférences, veillées aux chandelles, projections, ...) sont organisés ce jour dans de nombreuses villes. Le site internet www.transgenderdor.org recense une centaine d'actions organisées dans les Etats anglophones (Angleterre, Irlande, Ecosse, Canada, Etats-Unis) mais également en Italie (Bergame) ou au Pays-Bas (La Haye).

A Lyon, l'association Chrysalide organise une journée de rencontres et d'échanges autour de la transphobie².

À LYON

À l'initiative de l'association Chrysalide, une grande journée d'action est organisée à Lyon le 20 novembre. Voici leur communication :

Le 20 novembre 2010 est la Journée Mondiale en Souvenir des Victimes de Transphobie, c'est donc un moment important pour notre association.

C'est pourquoi Chrysalide, l'APGL Rhône-Alpes Auvergne, AIDES, la Lesbian and Gay Pride de Lyon et l'association Rimbaud vous invitent à une journée riche :

/ Rencontre entre proches entre 15h et 19h à la maison de l'éducation
Un moment d'écoute et de discussions entre 15h et 19h à la maison de l'éducation (21 rue des tables claudiennes 69001 Lyon). Cet espace de parole est réservé aux personnes proches de personnes transidentitaires (familles, parents, enfants, conjoint-e-s, etc.)

/ GED (Groupe d'échanges et de dialogues) à partir de 16h au Forum Gay et Lesbien
Comme tout les mois on vous convie à venir nous rejoindre à partir de 16h au FGL (17 rue Romarin 69001 Lyon).
Cet espace est un moment de solidarité, d'informations et de support, ils sont faits par et pour des personnes transsexuelles, transgenres, intersexes, travesties, queer, indéfinies, ou tout simplement qui se sentent proches des problématiques trans.

/ Présentation de nos brochures Santé sexuelle et Famille à 19h30 à la salle Witkowski

À partir de 19h30, nous nous retrouverons à la salle Witkowski (18 quai de Bondy 69005 Lyon), où un buffet gourmand en présence des bénévoles, partenaires associatifs et élu-e-s nous attend.

Nous vous présenterons, lors de cet événement, deux brochures (famille et santé) réalisées par Chrysalide et financées en partie par la Région Rhône Alpes et la Ville de Lyon.

/ Projection

Dans la soirée, nous projeterons également un film sur les transidentités, «Normal». Adapté d'une pièce de théâtre, «Normal» est l'histoire d'une personne MtF mariée, avec deux enfants, ouvrier dans une usine du Midwest américain qui subit sa vie dans le silence depuis des années. A l'aube de ses 50 ans, elle est rattrapée par l'identité qu'elle a refoulée pendant 25 ans de mariage et décide de débiter une transition. Nous sommes les témoins de sa lente évolution, des conflits et des bonheurs du quotidien.

Nous vous attendons nombreuses et nombreux !

A Lyon, l'association Chrysalide organise une journée de rencontres et d'échanges autour de la transphobie².

À PARIS

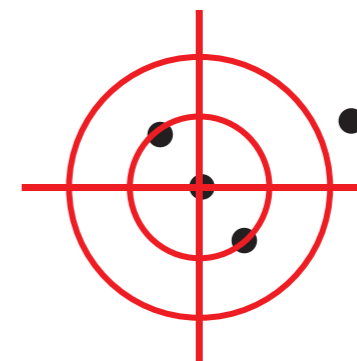

À Paris, à l'initiative d'un collectif est organisée une campagne inter-associative d'affichage³ afin de sensibiliser la société à l'existence de la Journée Internationale du Souvenir Trans et d'amener, notamment par le biais médiatique, la question des violences transphobes dans l'espace public. Une action de visibilité et de commémoration aura également lieu ce samedi 20 novembre à 14h sur le pont des Arts.

L'URGENCE DE PARLER DE LA TRANSPHOBIE

Les actions menées dans le cadre de la Journée Internationale du Souvenir Trans' ont pour but de commémorer la mémoire des victimes de la transphobie mais également d'amener une visibilité des violences transphobes et d'interpeller la société et les pouvoirs publics sur la transphobie.

Le silence qui entoure les violences transphobes contribue à son impunité. Ne pas parler des agressions transphobes donne le sentiment aux agresseurs d'être dans leur bon droit et aux victimes d'être seules. De manière générale, l'invisibilité de la transidentité dans l'espace public est un facteur discriminant : en l'absence de reconnaissance sociale, de l'existence d'une communauté trans', la transphobie n'existe pas, semble-t-on dire. Que valent les vies de celles et ceux qui n'existent pas ?!...

Nous refusons d'être des victimes silencieuses et c'est pourquoi nous nous mobilisons pour dire qu'il y a urgence à rompre le silence!

11e journée du souvenir trans': honorer la mémoire des victimes de transphobie
source : Yagg, 20 novembre 2009

Se souvenir et honorer la mémoire des trans' assassiné-e-s. Voilà l'objectif de ce "Transgender Day of Remembrance" (T-DOR), journée du souvenir trans', organisée chaque 20 novembre dans plus de 120 villes dans le monde. Cette année, on dénombre pas moins de 162 cas de crimes de haine visant des trans', selon le rapport du Trans Murder Monitoring Project (TMMP). Un chiffre relatif à ce qu'ils sont parvenus à reporter mais qui reste selon eux probablement bien en dessous de la réalité.

Organisée pour la première fois en 1999 aux États-Unis, suite au meurtre de Rita Hester, cette journée annuelle est devenue internationale. Elle est aujourd'hui l'occasion de rassemblements dans 17 pays, sur tous les continents. En France, des événements auront lieu à Lille, à Strasbourg, à Aix-en-Provence, à Lyon... (infos et liste des villes).

T-DOR 2004

UN ESPACE DE DEUIL PUBLIC

La journée du souvenir trans' est l'occasion d'une réflexion sur les conditions de vie des trans' dans le monde entier, les discriminations, les violences, les emprisonnements et les homicides dont ils-elles sont victimes. L'occasion aussi d'offrir aux victimes et aux proches un espace de deuil public et de restituer leur honneur à ses vies perdues pour qu'elles ne soient pas oubliées.

On retrouve parmi les pays les plus touchés par les meurtres de trans': le Brésil, avec 41 meurtres l'année dernière, le Venezuela, 22 meurtres, le Honduras, 16 meurtres et les États-Unis, 13 meurtres. Le rapport du TMMP constate que 75% des meurtres reportés l'année dernière concernent l'Amérique latine. En Europe, 16 meurtres ont été reportés dans six pays (Italie, Russie, Serbie, Espagne, Turquie et Royaume-Uni). Des meurtres révélateurs de l'omniprésence de la transphobie.

Les Flamands Roses, "groupe d'expression gaie et lesbienne", soutiennent eux aussi cette journée et rappellent "qu'une étude aux États-Unis montre que les trans' ont 18 fois plus de risques que la moyenne de se faire assassiner et que les peines obtenues par les meurtriers sont souvent légères: ainsi le 14 août 2008, au Royaume-Uni, le meurtrier présumé de Kellie Telesford était acquitté après que la défense est parvenue à jeter le discrédit sur la victime; le 23 août, aux USA, le meurtrier d'Alexis King obtenait des circonstances atténuantes; un an plus tôt, dans le même État, le meurtre d'Erica Keel, heurtée à quatre reprises par la voiture de son assassin, était considéré comme un accident, tandis qu'au Portugal en 2006, les meurtriers de Gilberta Salce avaient été condamnés à des peines légères de 11 à 13 mois".

RASSEMBLEMENT À LILLE SAMEDI

"S'il ne s'agit que d'exemples, ces jugements affirment que les trans' n'ont pas les mêmes droits que les autres êtres humains, qu'assassiner une personne parce qu'elle est trans' n'est pas un crime de haine mais une circonstance atténuante. La défense fait peser la culpabilité sur les victimes, prétendant qu'elles se feraient passer pour ce qu'elle ne sont pas et l'auraient forcément un peu cherché. (...) le vecteur principal de transphobie vient encore des États eux-mêmes, qui ne reconnaissent pas la transphobie comme une discrimination (...) Donner des circonstances atténuantes à un meurtrier parce que sa victime l'a "trompé" sur son "vrai sexe" ou parce qu'elle avait "une force d'homme" lui permettant de se défendre, c'est aussi légitimer les argumentations patriarcales rendant responsables les victimes.", s'indignent Les Flamands Roses. Le groupe propose un rassemblement demain samedi 21 novembre, à 12h, au marché Sébastopol, à Lille (infos sur leur site).

DES ACTIONS POUR LES VICTIMES DE TRANSPHOBIE

Par Paul Parant lundi 21 novembre 2005

Des die-in et des actions à Paris et Strasbourg ont marqué le T-DOR, la journée internationale pour les victimes de transphobie.

Hier, dimanche 20 novembre, les transsexuel(le)s, les transgenres et leurs amis ont célébré la journée internationale en mémoire des victimes de transphobie (T-DOR, Trans' Day of Remembrance). Quelques dizaines de personnes ont suivi un parcours dans Paris, du Sacré-cœur à l'hôpital psychiatrique Sainte Anne, en passant par le Louvre, Beaubourg et le Marais. Chaque fois, un die-in était lancé autour d'une banderole: «La transphobie tue». «De jolies actions, pour donner un peu de visibilité aux trans», résume Pauline Londeix, coordinatrice des question trans, homophobie et prévention à Act Up-Paris. À Strasbourg, une dizaine de personnes s'est rassemblée devant la Caisse primaire d'assurance maladie (Sécurité sociale). Les actions étaient coordonnées à Paris avec Act Up, Existrans et le G.A.T (photos et vidéo sur son site) et à Strasbourg avec STS et TaPaGeS (site). Au centre Sainte Anne de Paris, le discours est devenu plus dur: «On en assez de cet hôpital qui ne respecte pas les trans», ont lancé les militants. «Chaque jour dans le monde, des trans sont assassinés, expliquent-ils. En France, l'État nous psychiatrie. Sans prise en compte directe par la Halde, il n'y a pas d'observatoire. On n'a donc même pas de chiffres sur le nombre de victimes.» Le T-DOR est organisé chaque année dans le monde depuis le meurtre de Rita Hester à Boston, aux États-Unis, en 1998.
